Spruce Handicrafts uses cookies to provide you with a great user experience. By using spruce handicrafts, you get our use of cookies. PedagoNet Several options here allow you to create a truly custom puzzle. The words you enter can be separated by commas, spaces, or a line, so it's easy to paste a chunk of words into the site to use with your puzzle. The maximum number of rows and columns is 100, and you can change the font size and background color. Another option allows you to select a few random words from your list instead of using them all. Another option is the ability to choose the exact way the words are placed in the puzzle, such as back and forth, diagonal, or up and down. In addition, you can hide the list of words from the puzzle. Union Pacific 9000 is an important part of steam development history and one of only three three-cylinder steam terts preserved. ©2015 Ryan C Kunkle, licensed About.com, Inc. George Stevenson invented Steam Locomotive, the predecessor of Modern Trains, in 1814. After 10 months of tinkering, Stevenson, who worked in the coal mining industry, produced his first train, which he called Blucher. Stevenson's track was only 400 feet long, but his engine towed eight loaded 30-ton coal cars at about four metres. Since then, trains have been an integral part of the history of the world and in the U.S., notes History.com: Trains helped the North win the Civil War. The world's first travel agency began thanks to rail travel. The railroads gave us standard time zones. Miles of railroad tracks in the United States peaked in 1916 (with nearly 400,000 miles). As of 2014, there were still more than 160,000 miles of railroad tracks in the U.S., with each mile producing more than $820,000 a year, according to Rail Serve.
